Crew Training

SEA is accepting registrations for training classes, open to anyone interested in advancing their skills. December 2011, the following three courses are scheduled:

I. Bridge Resource Management (1600 Tons):

BRM provides training to mariners seeking an STCW endorsement at the management and operational (Master/Mate) levels. This is a three day course offered at SEA, December 6-8, 2011.
Course fee: $550.00

II. Visual Communication (Flashing Light):

Flashing Light provides training experience, a combination of instruction and practical guidance in learning Morse Code. Successful completion of this course will satisfy the practical signaling examination requirements (flashing light) of 46 CFR 11.401(h). This is a one day course offered at SEA, December 10, 2011.
Course Fee: $100.00

III. Basic Safety Training (BST):

BST consists of four modules, and is designed to satisfy the basic safety training requirements of STCW. These modules include:

- a. 12-Hour Personal Survival Techniques
- b. Fire Prevention and Fire Fighting (offered at New England Maritime, Hyannis, MA)
- c. 4-Hour Personal Safety & Social Responsibilities
- d. 8 Hour First Aid & CPR

BST modules are offered at SEA, with the exception of Fire Prevention and Fire Fighting, which SEA coordinates with New England Maritime to provide this course. All four BST modules are schedule over a 5 day period, December 12-16, 2011.
Course Fee: $950.00

These USCG approved courses are being offered to SEA Faculty, Staff and Crew as well as other interested Mariners. Prices include housing and lunches each day while at the SEA campus. Current SEA Faculty, Staff and Crew may inquire about tuition assistance for these trainings.

For more information and to register, please contact Laurie Weitzen, in the SEA Marine Department by email- lweitzen@sea.edu or phone 508.444.1911.

We hope to see you in December!
